A police officer was seen holding a BA-94 or BA-93 sub-machine gun similar to a Burmese-made Uzi. Attempts were made to remove the bullet that struck Mya Thwe Thwe Khaing in the head, but doctors surrendered on the morning of February 12, 2021. A doctor at Nay Pyi Taw Hospital who treated her said the bullet had penetrated her head. Most of her brain function is out of order. The wound was caused by a live bullet. The bullet pierced the back of the right ear and landed on the left side of the head. He was medically diagnosed with brain death. According to a photo of her motorcycle helmet hit by a bullet, the bullet appeared to have pierced the helmet and could not have been a rubber bullet. Forensic experts have speculated that the bullet may have been a real bullet. She also concluded that the shape of her fall had been a direct hit, not a recurrence. On February 15, the family agreed to remove the breathing tube and transport the body, but the junta verbally pressured them to delay as much as they could. He died at 11:15 a.m. on February 19.

At noon on March 28, the armed wing of the Junta cracked down on Tahan protesters with sound grenades, rubber bullets, assault rifles and heavy explosive weaponry. Ah Khu was providing medical assistance to front line protesters who were injured. A plain clothed junta soldier shot Ah Khu in the chest from a tall building. She died on the way to the hospital. On the return of Ah Khu's body to Chin State, the junta was conducting a search operation in Kalemyo Township and at the exit gates of Kalemyo. Her body was stopped three times on the way back to Chin State. They falsely claimed that the body was not Ah Khu, but the body of someone that had died as a result of high blood pressure. The junta have regularly taken bodies away and cremated them, themselves. Ah Khu's family members decided not to use the name "Ah Ku", to prevent this from happening and avoid harassment from the junta.
